Unplug to Re-ignite: The Transformative Benefits of a Creative Artist’s Retreat

In the daily rush of life, distractions and daily responsibilities, creative energy often gets sidelined and vision clouded. For artists, writers, and creators of all kinds, this can lead to burnout, stagnation, and a frustrating disconnect from the very muse that fuels their work. Enter the creative artist’s retreat, a sanctuary of inspiration, rest, and renewal. It is a lifeline offering time away, space to breathe, reflect, and reawaken your artistry

Wherever you are on your art journey, a retreat can reignite your relationship with your creativity in profound and lasting ways.

I am working with a wonderful artist, Racquel Keller, www.racquelkeller.com to offer retreats in 2026 and 2027. Each has been carefully crafted to offer:

- time and space for personal development
- beautiful settings around the world
- 2 professional artist -tutors to inspire and support
- sharing your creativity with like-minded people

These retreats offer more than time away, they provide space to remember what it means to create with intention, passion, and freedom. Whether the result is a completed series, a shift in style, or simply a rekindled spark, the retreat becomes part of the artist’s evolving journey.

- May 2026: Flow and Form - Immerse yourself in understanding innovative ways of capturing movement and vitality in the Gers Landscape
- October 2026: La Dolce Arte – Savour art, food, and the golden glow of Italian landscapes.
- January 2027: Soak Up the Silence, Capture the Wild – The artists’ safari in off the beaten track Kenya
- October 2027: The Cornish Palette – Let creativity flow shaped by salt air, shifting skies, and coastal light.
